

Exhibit 5

Paying More for Services – First at Home, Then Abroad

The prices of services relative to goods began rising over a half century ago in the overall U.S. economy. This wasn't seen with exports until new communications technologies made it easier to sell services in the global marketplace.

